Old Doc (Harrison Dow) has doctor's his small community for 60 years and is carrying on until his dearest wish can come true and his son Bob (Walter Butler) comes home to practice with him. Bob, however, doesn't want to return. He wants a big city practice with Dr. Brand (Ernest Dondis) whose daughter Helen (Dorothy Peterson) is out to snare Bob. Margaret Burns (Carol Hall) confronts Bob with his failure to tell his father of his decision to practice in a big city. They quarrel and Margaret returns Bob's ring. Finally, Bob leaves his father a note, telling him of his decision. Old Doc tries to bear it bravely, but suffers a stroke. Ma Brown (Barbara Lamb) fakes a telegram that lets Old Doc die happy, thinking Bob is going to take his place.

There is a fine supporting cast including the following: Mrs. Rossi, Ruth Wotton; Mrs. Cronin, Miriam Dorman; Mrs. Mellon, Margaret Hayner; Janet and Dick, Betty Munro and Herbert Ellingwood; Pa Brown, Douglas Cooper; Lawyer Hepple, Arthur Schofield; Mary Selby, Dorothy Trask; and Lois Warner, Norma Philbrick. Tickets will be checked Dec. 10, 11 and 12 at 3.45 p. m. at the High School and Chisholm's store. Make an appointment to see "Old Doc."

A Sacred Concert

"Bundles For Britain" Will Admit To Sunday Afternoon's Event

Just a piece of warm clothing, clean and mended, or new, admits one to the sacred concert at the Congregational Church Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, at which the Rubinstein Club and Thomaston Baptist Choral Society will appear in choruses, duets and solos, with community singing of Christmas carols.

The Good Housekeeping Club Service which is sending out the bulletins for the National Federation of Music Clubs lists these warm things which are especially needed: Shoes, men's wide sizes, women's sizes, seven or eight, children's over five years, wide sizes; woolen or mixed underwear for all three, long sleeved sweaters, pajamas and mittens for all three, and large sizes in woolen skirts and flannel petticoats for women.

Sunday Of Sacrifice

Tomorrow Marks Final Day Of World Emergency Relief Drive

For the past month the churches in the Northern Baptist Convention have been engaged in a drive to secure $600,000 to be distributed under these six headings:

For General World Relief;
For World Needs Across the Seas;
For Christian Ministry to Service Men;

For War-time Emergencies in Our schools;
For Aged Ministers and Missionaries.

For Unforeseen Emergencies.
Quotas equal to about 60 cents per resident member have been assigned to each Church.

S.O.S. Sunday of Sacrifice, Dec. 7, is the final day, and the Littlefield Memorial Church has gone well over the top, with prospects of considerable more money coming in on this day, as all are asked to have a "Refugee Dinner," giving to the fund the amount saved.

A timely message at 10.30 by Rev. C. A. Marsteller, using as his subject "The Sufficient Christ for a Suffering World," and in the evening at 7.30 the pageant, "The Living Cross," will be presented by the following young people: Roger Conant, Arlene Bartlett, Richard Giles, Ralph Munro, Ruth Hammond, Lucy Munro, Alvin Norton, Leona Lothrop, Athleen Moore and Ruth Carter. Special music includes solos by Miss Sylvia Hooper and Miss Miriam Dorman, a selection by the choir with Mr. Fitzpatrick as director and Mrs. William Dorman at the piano. The pageant was coached by Mrs. Marsteller, who was also chairman of the drive and much leader for the success of the drive. Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them. Matt 7:12.

AN UPWARD TREND

Comparative figures on railroad earnings continue to furnish satisfaction to the corporations which operate those very necessary institutions. The Maine Central Railroad, after a prosperous summer season, finds that its net income for October was $69,273 as compared with the net income of $14,890 for the corresponding month a year ago. This year the October revenue found its greatest gain in the passenger department which showed an increase of 46.09 percent, while the freight revenue was rising 31.96 percent. Mail revenue was better by 12.82 percent, but for offsetting this was the decrease of 24.69 percent in express revenues. From the October revenues management has set aside $77,000 which amount is one-third of the estimated sum which would be necessary to meet increased wage payments to employees in the year of 1941 based on the increase recommended by the President's Fact Finding Board.

PUBLISHED IN PRISON

We have frequently given favorable mention to the Maine State Prison publication "Vox," and the steady improvement shown by the little magazine certainly warrants it, the Christmas cover of the current issue being particularly attractive. The editors are to be congratulated from a literary standpoint, and the interest shown by the other inmates must certainly tend to relieve the monotony of involuntary solitude. From the editorial staff of Vox comes this message which bespeaks a patient and commendable spirit:

"It was Mark Twain who said 'I have had just lots of trouble in my life but most of it never happened.' Sure things may not be so good right now but they might be a whole lot worse! So cheer up—for Christmas is on the way and better days are due in 1942! Heads up then. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

BRIDGE-BUILDING PERILS

When we ride over the mighty bridges which mankind has stretched over our rivers and bays, we marvel at their massiveness, their security, and the mechanical skill which has been exercised to make them possible. But do we pause to consider the great hazard which has marked almost every step of the construction? The peril was again emphasized Thursday, and brought closer to our own doors, with the collapse of three spans of the world's largest girder bridge near Hartford, Conn. Eight lives snuffed out, five missing and many injured! Again we ask, do the people realize the tremendous risk and the human sacrifice which are involved in making modern transportation a care-free thing of joy?

MORNING'S NEWS IN A NUTSHELL

Japan responded yesterday to President Roosevelt's request for an explanation of the massing of troops in French Indo-China and its reply in no way relieved the gravity of the acute Far Eastern crisis. The Tokyo Government said its forces were in the French Colony as a precautionary measure, induced by Chinese troop movements across the border. It said their presence there has the approval of the government at Vichy, France.

Britain announced yesterday she was declaring war against Finland, Hungary and Rumania in an action without immediate practical effect but aimed at seating those three Axis satellites definitely on the Nazi side of the peace table after the war.

The Soviet air force is pounding retreating German forces massed for a further retreat across the Mius River in southern Russia.

Biting cold again has slowed down the fighting around Moscow and the oil port of Rostov. The Germans admit a powerful Russian counteroffensive in the Tikhvin sector designed to relieve pressure on the capital and besieged Leningrad.

Rockland High School Teams Open Their Season Next Wednesday

Rockland High School boys and girls' basketball teams open their season next Wednesday when they meet the teams of Lawrence High School of Fairfield at the Community Building. The R.H.S. Jayvees will play a Community Building team, coached by Jim Flanagan, between the halves of the regular games.

The boys' team has had two weeks' practice and is coming along in good shape for their opening game. The girls' team has practiced somewhat longer and may be in better shape all around for the first game.

Coach Jim Stevens has two complete teams ready for the floor. He is not saying which one is the first team; in fact, says they may both be second teams.

Dr. Scroggie Coming

London Divine Will Address
Monthly Bible Conference Here Tuesday Night

Dr. F. John Scroggie

An exceptionally interesting speaker who has never visited New England before, will give the address at the third monthly Bible Conference to be held in the First Baptist Church next Tuesday night at 7.30. He is Dr. F. John Scroggie of London, born of Scottish parents, educated at Malvern Grammar School and Clarence College. For years he was connected with the firm of J. E. Hawkins and Coy. Ltd., then with Morgan and Scott, publishers, then with one of the largest banking houses in England as manager of one of the London Branches. During these 48 years of business life, Dr. Scroggie had a varied experience in religious life. He studied voice at the Guildhall School of Music in London, where he was urged to prepare for the concert stage because of his powerful tenor voice of extensive range. In 1907, he assisted Dr. G. Campbell Morgan as musical director at Westminster Chapel, London.

In 1911 he became pastor of the Walton Baptist Church in Surrey, and since then has been constantly in service as a preacher or singer of the gospel in the office of pastor, evangelist or Bible conference speaker, first in Wesleyan Circuits and then in the Baptist Union of Great Britain. Much of this was done while he was still in business, something which many British business and professional do.

Besides the wide experience of the speaker on the platform, Dr. Scroggie has composed many hymn tunes and is the author of the book, "The Divine Program in Human History," which has passed through three editions. He is brother of Dr. W. Graham Scroggie, world renowned expositor, writer and teacher, who is now pastor of the Spurgeon Tabernacle in London recently destroyed by bombing. Dr. Scroggie has exceptional gifts for talking and singing to young people.

These monthly conferences are held under the auspices of the New England Fellowship and co-operating Church in this area. The speaker next month will be Dr. Richard Ellsworth Day, of Toronto, author of "Bush Aglow," "Under the Shadow of the Broad Brim," and other best sellers. He has a dynamic message for this hour.

Altar Exercises, Exalted Ruler and Lodge Officers Trumpet Duet, Marion and Dudley Harvey Eulogy, G. B. Butler Audit Lane Synagogue. Buffet lunch will be served.

A New Appointment

A. Alan Grossman, who came from Massachusetts to practice law in this city, four years ago, has been appointed disclosure commissioner for Knox County. He is a native of Boston and fitted for the Bar at Suffolk Law School. In addition to adopting Rockland as his field for law practice, he chose a wife here in the person of Constance Miller.

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

A Farmington despatch says that Earl Pelchat has escaped from the Franklin County Jail. I haven't the honor of his acquaintance, but the name carries an unpleasant odor.

According to the Census Bureau the size of the American family is steadily declining, the latest report showing an average of 3.8 persons. That doesn't sound much like the old days when it was necessary to put extra leaves in the dining tables to accommodate most families.

With the approach of the Christmas season comes the annual fire hazard due to the proximity of Santa's whistlers to the Christmas tree candles. Ever since that amiable personage began defrauding the barber he has been a constant menace to himself and to others. But what would Christmas be without a Santa Claus?

Words frequently misspelled: Bouquet (often without the "u"); Mayoralty (often called mayorality); entertainment (often begun with an "i" instead of an "e").

Poor Old Dobbin! One cannot help sympathizing with his loneliness. Remaining in this country, according to the Census Bureau, are only 250 livery stables, doing a business of $1,372,000 a year, as contrasted with the 290,000 establishments serving automobile owners, and showing total receipts of $2,500,000,000.

Were you out motoring Thursday night in the regions where land fogs prevail? Overhead shone the moon, the planets and the stars in all their glory; yet you rode through fog so dense that approaching headlights could scarcely be discerned a few hundred feet away.

Everybody has been praising the moderate weather, with the possible exception of the fuel dealers, who would much prefer to be furnishing the warmth at this season of the year.

Capital invested in vineyards in the United States is estimated at about one-half billion dollars, says the Department of Commerce. Perhaps the Department can now tell us how much capital is annually invested in their product.

One cannot fail to appreciate words like these, which come from Dr. Cyril E. Bousfield of Woolwich: "I want to congratulate you on publishing the best and cleanest and finest local paper I have known and I wish you great prosperity."

One year ago Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Ayer of Union celebrated their golden wedding—James E. Steverson was elected commander of Claremont Commandery, K. T.—Harrison W. Whitehill was elected three illustrious master King Hiram's Council, R.S.M.—John E. Fuller, 93, died at Tenant's Harbor.

Busy Men Are On the Alert — Annual Banquet To Be Held

The Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday night was well attended and proved most interesting. The speaker was Dr. Clinton Clauson of Augusta who gave a talk on Defense Savings Stamps and Bonds.

Leon Crockett was elected the new chairman of the local Defense Savings Committee. LeForrest Thurston, county chairman, was present. Charles E. Lord, newly appointed president of the Outing Club, requested the cooperation of all members of the Chamber and invited constructive suggestions for activities of the Club for the coming season.

Frank Morrow, chairman of the Christmas lighting, reported that due to the shortage of power, the Central Maine Power Co. felt it could not permit street lighting this year. However, the stores will be attractively arrayed and there will be a huge Christmas tree adorning the Village Green. Among reports was one on the Information Bureau by George Thomas and Betty Foxwell. Harold Corbett and Percy Keller described the O.P.M. Defense Train which they visited recently at Bangor.

Judges of polls for the coming election of directors are: Charles E. Lord, Dr. W. Lee Dickens and Orville Gross. Maurice Payson accepted Mr. Reed's appointment as auditor.

It was voted to have an annual banquet this year with David Crockett as chairman and the same committee as served last year. It was also voted to send an expression of appreciation to Philip Hofer for his interest and assistance in the Information Bureau. New members were officially admitted.

This nominating committee was elected: Gilbert Harmon, chairman, J. C. Hobbs, David Crockett, Rev. William E. Berger and B. F. Mathews.

Mr. Grossman is also a dedicated justice.

To Furnish Christmas Dinners At Home For Aged Women—Some Other Activities

Fog neither hampered attendance nor dampened the spirits of Rotarians at their regular meeting yesterday. It was unanimously voted to make the gift of a Thanksgiving dinner to the Home For Aged Women an annual event.

Glasses for underprivileged children with defective eyesight, is a problem in every community. Unsatisfactory school work by these boys and girls is often due to eye trouble that can be corrected with glasses. Members of the Rotary Club yesterday voted enthusiastically to take on the special project of providing spectacles for school children needing them. Still another community service project was set in motion with the decision to hold the annual Christmas party Dec. 19, when each Rotarian will take a boy to the meeting as his guest. The boys will not only receive gifts but a bountiful dinner with plenty of fun sprinkled in.

Kennedy Crane introduced two High School boys who will be guests of the club at each meeting during the month of December—Walter Butler and Clarence deRochemont. Don Adams of the Central Maine Power Company was a guest.

Entertainment was provided by Rotarian George Scott of Belfast in the form of motion pictures depicting the history of the American Flag.

Book Review
(By K. S. F.)

The Shoemaker's Son, The Life of Hans Christian Andersen. By Constant Buel Burnett. Publishers, Random House, New York.

We who read this partly grim but mostly enchanting struggle for recognition, pick up memories that have held down through long corridors of life's lanes of pleasures. The tales of Hans Christian Andersen were far from make-believe in all their struggle for recognition.

"The Ugly Duckling" who turned into a swan was not remodelled without years of hardship and chills of body, mind and soul, yet that soul was faithful to his God.

Vividly the story of the Shoemaker's son's life is told and with arresting sympathy. Many characters drawn with perfection of vision.

Constant Burnett paints the months and years of hardship with telling emotion, and keeps that spark of hope alert on her pages. This biography is alive with the magic of Hans Christian's family life, his struggles, his poetic hope, and the fruit of his endeavors ripened to the very core.

This refreshing adventure into earlier life, when the stories of this favorite of us all held us spell-bound, is worthy of our face about from the sordid passion-filled novels of today. It is like the breath of Spring after Winter's chill. It will make you think of other days. Life on the hearth-stone of adventures. Beautiful pictures add much to the book's value.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mrs. Lenore Savage, chairman of placement bureau of the local civilian defense program, has announced that starting Monday, and continuing throughout the week from 1 to 2 each afternoon, members of the placement committee will be at the Chamber of Commerce room at the Community Building to assist in the registration of the citizens. All who have not registered are urged to do so at this time, whether members of organizations or not. All representatives who attended organization meeting and were given registration cards are asked to return those cards as soon as possible, whether signed or not. Plans are rapidly progressing for the formation of new classes and for other classes, and it is important that those who wish to join these classes should register at once.

The Sea Scouts of the S.S. Red Jacket have had somewhat of a problem on their hands since the first cold days to properly heat their quarters in the Gen. Berry engine house. The need for an additional stove was urgent and when Mrs. Lilian McRae of Pleasant street heard of the youngsters' difficulties, she promptly furnished them with a large airtight stove that was just made for the job, receiving the hearty thanks of the youthful blue-jackets.

Rev. Mr. Roy H. Welker, pastor of the Rockland Congregational Church is giving to the Class of Nurses at Knox Hospital a course of lectures on mental psychology. This is a subject that Mr. Welker has given years of study, and he has delighted and enthused the nurses with his rare ability. This greatly needed course is given free to the hospital as Rev. Mr. Olds gave to the class in other years.

Tonight's dance at Glen Cove Grange hall will be the last in the Saturday night series until after the holidays. The series will be resumed Jan. 3 or 10 with a new orchestra.

Senior High's 11 clubs, known as "extra-curricular activities," cover a wide range of interests, wide enough to enable almost every student to find some activity of interest to him. Of course, the curricular subjects come first, but these extra activities give an opportunity to put the theory learned in regular work, into actual practice. Club activities give students participating in them a feeling of responsibility and develop initiative, leadership, and character, and because of their inestimable value should be a part of every student's school life.

By request Principal Blaisdell has contributed the following:

The modern High School recognizes extra curricular activities as a valuable complement to the routine work of the class room. One noted educator has said: "The extra curricular activities should develop from the curricular activities of the school and return to them to enrich them." The clubs at Rockland High School are based upon this philosophy of education. They give many pupils opportunities to associate together in activities which are valuable training for adult experience. Teachers and pupils work together for a common purpose. Pupils who are good leaders are always in demand to guide the destinies of these organizations. It is significant that this list of clubs corresponds to similar lists of adult groups. The purpose of all education is the development of many phases of a person's personality. This seems sufficient reason to justify the existence of the various clubs connected directly with the Rockland High School.

The popularity of club work in this school is proven by the following number of memberships: Junior Red Cross, 318; Thespian

THE UNUSED TIME

Could we take time to heed more of the unused moments, and use them in deeper reflections, to meditate on what we might have accomplished for our own good as well as the betterment of our closest contacts with life and peoples, we might be more ready for the days to come, and make fewer mistakes; thus bringing more satisfaction to ourselves and to all with whom we come in contact. Would it not be well to think thus—Tomorrow brings to me a new clean perfect day. Let me take the utmost care that I in no way spoil any moment of it, or soiled any part of it by lack of thought for others, and lack of thought of what I may do or say. Let me, Divine Father, guard my steps, my tongue, and my heart to worthy accomplishments for what I was expected to do in my short stay on earth. Everyone can think of persons who have lived to the full in worthy deeds their lives, and left a fragrance of memories that will season, refresh and nourish those whom they touched in passing. If everyone would make a resolve to lift in the fleeting moments to high levels, the new day would be an inspiration of joy. K. S. F.

In the study of identification and its use in business, Lloyd Snowdeal and William Brackett each brought in six kinds of identification. They included a Boy Scout membership card, Boy Scout test card, billfold identification card, smallpox vaccination certificate, activity ticket, bicycle license, and Red Cross membership card. Others had signet rings, pin with name, roller skating membership card, locket with picture, birth certificate, Girl Scout registration, letter, membership certificate of Summer Reading Club of the Public Library, bracelet with name, and key tag.

A Camera Club, for both Senior and Junior High, with Mr. Adams as director, is being formed. Pupils having a camera and a liking for photography may become members.

Ashley Bickmore, Director of Admissions, of the New England School of Art, in Boston, was a speaker at the Senior High assembly, Tuesday morning. He spoke on the courses offered at his school—Illustrated Advertising, Industrial Design, Fashion Illustration, and Fashion Design—and showed sketches in pen and ink and in color of this work done by the pupils there. A great deal of interest was shown in this vocation, when Mr. Bickmore afterward met over 40 students in the library for a conference. The school offers a two and three year

This year the Library Club is functioning very efficiently with Pauline Spear as the president, Margaret Havener as treasurer, and Dorothy Trask as secretary. The girls are in charge of the library each period and are responsible for giving help, charging books and taking care of the magazines and newspapers. Users of the library number from 50 to 100 a day, with an approximate average of 66 students. Many new books and magazines have been placed on the shelves, giving the students opportunity for good reading as well as for reference work in the library. Already the junior librarians are training for the work which they will take over in the latter part of the year and are helping greatly to keep the library attractive and useful. The groups are in charge of Miss Stahl.

Two movies were shown at Junior High Assembly Wednesday, one sponsored by W.C.T.U. on poisons, the other entitled "Men At the Wheel," a March of Time picture about policemen and safety. Devotions were in charge of Joan Hunt. The assembly closed with the singing of a few songs.

Members of the Junior and Senior English classes, by membership in the Student Book Guild, are purchasing well-known books to add to their own libraries. Grace Bowley is in charge of the Junior group and Pauline Spear of the Senior one.

Margaret Winslow and Minnie Smith spent Thursday afternoon at Camden Woolen and Knox Woolen Mills, getting material for their project on "Wool" in Consumer Education. Benedict Dowling visited John Bird Company for information on "Vanilla."

Next Thursday afternoon, Beatrice Hendersen, banjoist and whistler, will present a program of concert and opera selections, Stephen Foster songs, popular melodies, and modern interpretations. She will be assisted by her brother Jack, a pianist of marked ability. This is the third in a series of seven programs presented by the Pitt Parker Company.

The guidance subject for this week in Rooms 10 and 11 has been "The Code of a Good Student." This contains 14 points and these are discussed during the activity periods. A course in Junior High Guidance will be given the entire 8th grade for the remainder of this school year, by Mr. Adams.

Community Bowlers

Bowlers

Amateur bowling matches will be held at the alleys once each week, drawing the bowlers from the building membership. J. Duffy will be the instructor. Some hot matches are expected, with the beginners trying hard to roll up a score and filling the gutters as full as any thunderstorm could do.

The Water Company is leading the National League, with McLeon's Fire Chiefs riding in second position.

American League has made a shift over and will revamp its schedule on a handicap basis, giving the weaker teams a chance to roll somewhere near the two hot-shot teams which are leading the league.

Basketball

Over 100 boys of school age are enjoying the privileges of the gym each night. An active program of basketball games and athletic instruction is being carried on with H. Marston in charge.

Game Rooms

The Ping Pong room is one of the busiest places in the building with nightly games going on for the younger boys entertainment.

Dancing

The Sub Deb Club has a private dancing party in the Tower Room tonight.

Miss Martin of the high school faculty is conducting dancing classes every Monday night from 6:30 to 9 p. m. for students of the High School.

The Knox County draft board expects to receive a call for 24 men for the first January draft and 10 for the second call which will come later in the month.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Russell Allen Sabien who passed away Dec. 5, 1940. God knows how much we miss our baby.

He counts the years we shed. And whispers, "Hush, he only sleeps. Your darling baby is not dead." Deeply missed by his mother, Mrs. Nelson Sabien, Nelson Sabien, children and grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Odell F. Bowes who passed away Dec. 6, 1939. To day recalls sad memories. Of our dear one gone to rest. And those who think of him today. Are those who loved him best. No one knows the silent heartache. Only those that have lost can tell. Of the sorrow borne in silence. For him whom we loved so well.

Sadly missed by his wife Vinnie and son Calvin Bowes.

Grange Head Asks Voters To Support Gas Tax—State Organized Against

Charging that opponents of the one-half cent per gallon tax bill, up for referendum vote at the Dec. 10 special election were directing their fire at the issue by subterfuge, F. Ardine Richardson, Master of the Maine State Grange Tuesday, called for united support at the polls to pass the measure.

Richardson, devoting a considerable portion of his annual report to the State Grange in convention in Lewiston, to the merits of the gas tax act, declared that the opposition's principal contention was that the State Highway Commission had ample funds now to finance the provisions of the Holman Bill.

He explained that the Holman Bill which received passage by the 90th Legislature last Spring provided for the State to relieve towns from certain maintenance costs on roads and that passage of the gas tax would provide funds to reimburse the State for the added service. The gas tax, if approved by the electorate at the December 10 election, would be operative only until July 1943, with anticipated general highway revenues at that time expected to be sufficient to take care of the new program, Richardson advised.

He further stressed that a possible average saving of three to five mills in municipal tax rates might be effected by the transfer of road costs from the towns to the State under the provisions of the Holman Bill.

The opposition direct its fire at the gas tax issue, seeking to center public attention on the false impression that ample funds are available to carry out the contemplated program without reverting to additional taxes, Richardson said.

They leave the Holman bill, as well as the matter of the local tax reduction, both of which are of major importance, out of the picture, which is good strategy, if it works, he warned.

Refuting opposition charges that the gas tax was giving the general property owner a preferred classification and making the highway user the goat, Richardson declared that the vast proportion of real property owners have cars or trucks and, for the 18th months' duration of the tax they would pay their share of the increase, depending upon how much they use the highways.

Challenging opponents' claims that it is unfair to exempt general property from highway costs, Richardson, took occasion to point out that town appropriations for 1941, for road purposes amounted to approximately $5,000,000 and that, even with the proposed transfer, the appropriation would stand at nearly four and a half million dollars.

We admit our concern, when Bureau of Taxation figures for 1941 show some 215 communities with rates of $60 or over per $1000 of valuation, and more than 100 with rates in excess of $70 the high being $135, he emphasized.

We see reason for concern, when unpaid taxes, including deed and liens, on March 31, 1941 stood at $6,583,825.00. We do not deny our concern at a rate of $2.89 per $100.00 of value, which is exacted from real property in Maine, as compared with an average of $1.24 for all other States.

We confess our concern at the steady parade of municipalities seeking legislative authority to de-organize, a trend we shall have trouble in halting, while Maine continues to have the highest property taxes of any State.

Holman Calls for Action

"Voters going to the polls Dec. 10 should remember that the gas tax of a half cent a gallon would be effective only for a short period, while the legislation relieving towns from certain maintenance costs on roads will partly correct a long-standing weakness in the tax system," says C. H. Holman, Dixfield, president of Maine Taxpayers, Inc.

Holman points out that the act will relieve towns from the following maintenance costs on roads, beginning at next town meeting time: $60 per mile of State highway for Summer maintenance, $40 per mile of State highway for Winter maintenance, and $30 per mile of State-aid highway for Summer maintenance. It places on the State Highway Department responsibility for maintenance of third-class highways, maintenance of improved bridges on State-aid and third-class highways, and cutting bushes on improved highways.

"If the voters sustain the action of the legislature," Holman points out, "the gas tax will be increased one-half cent a gallon for about a year and a half, and property taxpayers will be saved $900,000 every year indefinitely."

"If the gas tax of one-half cent a gallon is turned down, property taxpayers will continue paying the $900,000 each year."

The legislature has passed the act providing for this relief to

RENDEZVOUS WITH A MIRACLE

By Delmar Emery
This story may not be reprinted or adapted in any form without consent from its author

It had been foolish of him to come here tonight. Ridiculous of him to even faintly believe that Linda might show up.

Fate chance she'd remember that ten years ago they'd promised to meet each other at this dingy little restaurant in the Fifties at midnight on the Christmas Eve of 1941. Ten years were ten years, and that covered plenty of territory when you boiled it down to months, weeks and days.

He looked around him at the shabbiness of the little place that ten years ago he had thought quite the berries (in 1931 that had been quite the expression) and marveled that a young man 21 years old had considered a place such as this a small slice of heaven.

The place itself hadn't changed much. It duplicated his memory of it to an amazing degree. The small round tables huddled together for lack of sufficient room, their red-checked tablecloths gliding with a bold violence to the innocent patron. The bright and heartlessly condemning lights in the low, smoky ceiling that made most people around you look a little harder than the majority of people could really be. The crude unpainted floor, always a fraction more dirty than clean. The rather nauseating smell of two much coffee. Even a waitress (though of course not the one of ten years back) staring curiously at you as though wondering what you could see in this place where she had to work almost every day and night in the week.

Yes, about everything was the echo of its appearance a decade ago. Except for the fact that a different management had probably congratulated itself on a sudden flash of inspiration—in a usually unimaginative mind—when it had removed the sign outside which read "The Step-In" and in its place had fashioned one that read "The Swing-In."

"Step-In" or "Swing-In, though, it was nevertheless awful, and why he should sit here another moment before he "swung-out" was quite beyond his comprehension. Poor fool, chaste idiot, he didn't have the faintest delusion that Linda Winters would be walking through that door in the next fifteen minutes, did he? No, definitely not. Then what in the world was keeping him here?

He butted his eighth cigarette in the stinky ash tray that would be overflowing should he attempt to extinguish a ninth in it, and he lit another. Nervous. What did nerves spring from? Were they sometimes the result of a hope, even a faint, faint hope?

He waved out the flame of his old of the gift of the chapel and the encouraging fact that 150 of the girl students will be located in the new dormitories next Fall. Moving pictures in natural color were shown of the new campus, and of two trips taken recently by the outfit club to Mt. Katahdin, and Mt. Kineo.

Pupils of the Junior High School have a new interest in growing things, the school having received the gift of several plant specimens in containers, from Mrs. Mabel Peabody, whose hobby is house plants of the non-flowering variety such as cacti, and others.

Eugene Genevieve Wellington was admitted to membership in the Woman's Club at a meeting Thursday. It was voted to give the sum of $2.50 to the Home for Little Wanderers and the same amount to Opportunity Farm. The program committee chairman, Mrs. Ella Cunningham, with the aid of Mrs. Flora Peabody, the other member of the American Home Committee of the Club, had prepared a home program.

Numbers were: Reading of sketches in "Goodly Heritage," by Mrs. Willis Vinal, and these selections, "Our House" by Mrs. Frank Rowe; "The House With Nobody In It," by Mrs. William Cunningham; "Prayer for a Home," by Mrs. Flora Peabody. "House Blessing" by Mrs. C. E. Overlock; "The Most Beautiful Christmas," by Mrs. L. Clark French; "A Little Child" by Mrs. Philip Simmons; "Christmas Spirit," by Mrs. Inez Mathews; and "Christmas Legends" by Mrs. Everett Cunningham.

Musical numbers featured piano solos by Joyce Butler; piano duet by Joyce Butler and Richard Butler; violin solos by Willis Berry; the community singing of favorite Christmas carols. Accompanists were Mrs. Roland Berry and Mrs. Dana Smith, Sr.

Picking of the beautifully decorated tree was enjoyed and refreshments served under the direction of Mrs. S. F. Haskell, Mrs. C. E. Overlock, Mrs. L. Clark French, Mrs. Chester Wylie, and Mrs. William Cunningham.

Rev. Hugh Blunt performed the double ring ceremony, which was followed by a reception at Cabot Farms, Somerville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The maid of honor was Miss Rita Brooks, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Marie Brooks and Miss Louise Brooks, both sisters of the bride. Robert Redmond of Arlington, a nephew of the groom, was best man, John Berry and John Fogler of Arlington were ushers.

The bride was gowned in white satin with a long train in princess style and her long tulle veil was trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried calla lilies. The maid of honor wore blue taffeta with a crown and veil and carried tea roses. The bridesmaids' gowns were pink taffeta with bonnets to match and they carried old-fashioned bouquets.

The bride graduated from St. Johns High School in Cambridge. The groom attended Belmont High School and Bridgton Academy. He was associated with his father in the building business but now is with the Submarine Signal Company, Boston.

After a wedding trip to New York, the couple will be at home at 94 Egerton road, Arlington, Mass.

Britain has appointed a Director of Civilian Footwear who plans production of low-priced nationally branded footwear for the working classes.

Seesaw Bowling

First It's the Skippers, Then It's the Ganders At the Cascade Alleys

In another seesaw battle Tuesday night at the Cascade Alleys the Ganders ended on the up beat, while the Skippers finished on the down side, and the matches for the current season now stands at three-all.

While the general run of scores was low, the Goose being the most notable exception, the game was interesting due to the fact that first one team would be leading and then the other, so that up to the time the Goose began turning the whole thing was, as the war commentators say, "in a fluid state." This is not to say that any particular low scores or any particular high scores were due to any particular fluid, but rather that the term "fluid" as used here means that state when anything can happen which without question was the state of affairs up to the time Goose lost his fluidity and began to jell.

While both sides had their hard luck it seemed as if the half wooter break was particularly affectionate toward the Skippers, and Postmaster Drew claims that his side punched out 339 of these hard breaks, but of a possible 350 chances.

Captain Grimes, sporting a natty new lid, which came in for considerable comment from the brethren, was in a dreadful slump, and as was full of alibis as a dog is of fleas, but nothing could get him to admit that the new hat had anything to do with it. Rather Der Captain laid his poor showing to the excellent bowling he did the night before, which he explained by the law of averages.

And there might be something in the Captain's argument at that, for Skipper Lane was in the very same category, and he had to take refuge in past performance rather than what was happening at the time.

The latter half of the bowling team of Lane & Libby, namely Gander Everett Libby certainly had a swell time in putting the shellac on Skipper Lane, who at the present writing thinks he will never recover from the shock of that first string of 69. But it was the old Goose who really won the match for the Ganders for his last string of 124 was so outstanding that it carried his whole team along to victory. It was the best single turned in so far this season, and it also gave the Goose the best three-string total as yet, which goes to show that give the old bird time enough and he will work out something good.

While Gene Hall admits a great deal of surprise and some little disappointment over the Ganders winning this match, he does not in the least admit of any faltering of faith or wavering of courage, and states that just as sure as the Goose drinks Coca Cola, or that Captain Grimes' cigars cost 39 cents a thousand, the Skippers will come back next week and hang "them Ganders" to the yard arm. The score:

We In Vinahaven

"We" met on Tuesday evening, in the vestry of the Latter Day Saints Church, to hold the organization meeting of the Vinahaven Federal Credit Union, Charter No. 4763.

"We" were happy to have with us, our older friends, Mr. Gratto and Mary Arnold and our newer friend, Mr. Lendall Green, Clerk-Treasurer of the Federal Credit Union of Sebasco, Me.

Accepting the suggestion of the nominating committee, the general membership elected the following members to serve as committee men, until the annual meeting in January: Directors, Ralph Earle, Birger Magnuson, Agnes Smalley, Nellie Hall and Wallace Young, Credit Committee, Jack Carlson, Freda Barton and Maurice Leadbetter. Supervisory Committee, Alfred Hall, Erma Carlson and Jim Barton.

Following the organization meeting of each of the three committees above mentioned, the general meeting was adjourned and Mr. Green entertained us with an inspiring account of the initiation, development, and present status of the Credit Union at Sebasco.

From our discussion club meetings of the past six months, there have come to date, in addition to many evenings of good wholesome food and fun, two wholly commendable and tangible results, the social survey of the island and the organization of the Credit Union, and "We" sincerely hope that the closer co-operation of an ever increasing number of friends and neighbors will make itself felt in more and more phases of our island life.

"We" meet again on Tuesday evening with Ralph Earle, firmly believing that an informal discussion of our mutual problems clarifies our understanding of them, knowing that by some concerted action a solution of them will be found.

SERGEANT YORK IS COMING

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

Sergeant York (Gary Cooper) receives the French Croix de Guerre from Marshal Foch (Jean del Val) for his heroic World War exploit.

Based on Sergeant York's own diary, the film tells a brave and straightforward narrative, the honest saga of a plain American who believed in God and his country, and acted on his beliefs. Before the outbreak of the World War, York was a "fightin' and hell-raisin'" mountain farmer down in the Cumberland Valley of Tennessee, trying to wrest a living from a piece of stony mountain land. His highest ambition is to get a piece of the richer "bottom land." His days of hell-raising end when he "gets religion." Shortly after this, America enters the war and York is drafted for army service. His strong religious beliefs make the thought of killing abhorrent to him, until he realizes that freedom is the one thing worth fighting for. So he goes to France and to fame for his single-handed capture of 132

German soldiers. Most compelling of these scenes, perhaps, is the one in which he is converted to religion. He has gone out on his mule, shotgun in hand, intent on getting vengeance on the man whom he believes has cheated him out of the land he wants. Before he arrives at his destination, a storm comes up, and a bolt of lightning strikes the shotgun in his hand. York sees this as an act of God, and moving almost in a trance, he goes to the little church where a prayer meeting is being held. As he walks in, the group starts to sing "That Old-Time Religion." Moving slowly, he approaches the altar and drops to his knees. That is all. There is not a word of dialogue in the entire scene, only the singing of the congregation, but it is a scene that will linger long in the memory of all who see it.

The unique decorations on the front of the Baptist parsonage are attracting considerable attention. A bank of evergreen above the window furnishes a background for a bar of music, the electrically lighted notes representing the first measure of "Holy Night." Pictures of carolers singing outside a church adorn the sunporch windows, with pleasing lighting effect.

REALM OF Music

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

In line with the project set forth by Mrs. Guy Gannett, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, of Bundles for Britain concerts, the Rubinstein Club and the Thomaston Baptist Choral Association as members of Maine Federation of Music Clubs, are sponsoring a concert at the Congregational Church (in Rockland) tomorrow afternoon at 4:30. A bundle containing a suitable article of clothing to be sent to Britain will be the admission, and the program will feature some of the best local talent. It is an excellent cause, meriting enthusiastic support, and it is heartening to attend a concert by our local artists who are heard all too seldom in public performance.

A local group also deserving whole hearted support is the Band Mothers Club of Rockland High School, an organization formed a year ago in the hope of aiding the band youngsters in securing new uniforms, instruments, music and whatever else might be needed in the endeavor to make this band one of which the school and community should be proud. Some activities have already taken place to raise funds, and doubtless there will be others in the future. Any undertaking on their part deserves cooperation.

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra has just begun its 100th year, but it is vastly different than it was 100 years ago. The first conductor was a bearded gentleman named Ureil Hill. He played his last performance with the orchestra in 1873, and it is said that after a few hard years he took enough morphine to kill himself. In 1842 the ushers were boys from the orchestra, chosen for their looks, and duly fitted out in white gloves and wands painted white, both paid for by the Philharmonic. Nowadays Carnegie Hall has its own ushers. A hundred years ago, too, the men of the orchestra played standing up, it was the custom to hire a hack to get the soloists from their homes to the hall, and the contract usually specified that the Philharmonic was to furnish wine for them to warm up on.

Nowadays even the "bull fiddle" contingent has tall stools to sit on if wished, and soloists furnish their own transportation (and their own wine, too, if any.)

But perhaps the biggest difference is in the financial department. A hundred years ago not one person in New York could be found to act as "good angel" for the new orchestra, so the players themselves put up $25 each and shared cooperatively in the proceeds. They got $15 at the end of the season, which was three cents long. This year the Philharmonic budget is something like $750,000, and the lowest paid man in the orchestra gets $90 per week. Unions have been invented since 1842. The backbone of the orchestra's audience both in 1842 and now were women, but when a woman suggested that she be admitted to the rehearsals, this was in 1847, it required a meeting of the board to sanction the departure. One woman attended the first rehearsal, 20 the second, and between one and two hundred the third. Although people are occasionally admitted to rehearsals today, most conductors are a little snooty about guests.

Another interesting slant is this—this season at least 10 conductors will charm the multitude and the least any of them will get is $500 a concert. Yet the Philharmonic for the first 23 years of its existence chose its conductors from the players, and when Carl Bergmann was engaged to do a whole season at the end of that period, his salary of $1000 was considered scandalous.

Several of the conductors for this season are American citizens, but not one is American born; The list is:

John Barborelli, English; Leopold Stokowski, English of Polish extraction; Eugene Goossens, English; Fritz Busch, German; Walter Damrosch, German; Bruno Walter, Austrian; Artur Rodzinski, Polish; Dimitri Mitropoulos, Greek; Serge Koussevitzky, Russian; Rudolph Ganz, Swiss; and Toscanini, if he conducts, Italian.

Speaking of the National Federation of Music Clubs a moment ago brings to mind the high praise accorded its work in the interest of national defense by Mrs. Roosevelt in her column, "My Day" recently. She characterized as astounding the work already carried out by the national and state federations in giving phonographs to army camps, providing records, and their members volunteering to teach choral singing, to play for entertainments and in giving concerts in the various camps and nearby places where the boys congregate on leave. Mrs. Roosevelt said: "Here is an organization which really has something to offer in the way of entertainment and has quietly gone about its work and already accomplished a great deal."

Not long after I listened to a radio program featuring Josef Bonnet playing the great organ privately owned by John Hays Hammond, Jr. in his home at Gloucester, Mass. I was most interested to find an article in the magazine section of a recent issue of Christian Science Monitor telling about this organ, and written by Janet Mable. This organ has been 21 years in building. Mr. Hammond's thought has been from the very first that when the organ was completed, some way would be found to "lend" it to people everywhere who love music. The way was found and the medium between the instrument and the listening public is Josef Bonnet, member of the family which has, for generations, ground the lenses that supply the beacons from the major light-houses of the world. Josef Bonnet is a brilliant musician, and during the Spring and Summer of this year he made an album of pipe organ recordings. Just now he has embarked on a series of regular broadcasts from Gloucester. M. Bonnet was among those who fled France early in the war.

The newest John Hays Hammond Jr. organ was designed, as he explains, "largely as a recreation, after the Hammond Laboratories at Gloucester had worked for years on the problems of producing so-called organ tone, electrically."

For years Mr. Hammond and Leopold Stokowski have conducted acoustical experiments in the Gloucester laboratories. Out of these researches came rearrangements of players in the Philadelphia Orchestra under Stokowski's baton. Many other innovations, too, have come out from these experiments. The article is most interesting and worth reading—it is much to long to reprint here.

Among the artists representing the Schumann Club is an exchange program before the Rubinstein Club not long ago was Sgt. Edward Liljestrand of Caldwell, N. J., now stationed at the Bangor Air Base. A violinist of marked ability, his work and manner delighted his audience. Sgt. Liljestrand is much in demand for programs in and around Bangor, and in connection with his appearance as guest artist on the program of the Bangor Women's Choral Club on Dec. 11, the advance notice has this to say:

"Mr. Liljestrand studied violin under Harold Berkley of the Juilliard School of Music in New York City and following his army service he plans to make music his career. While in high school he won a scholarship to Oberlin Conservatory. He is an accomplished musician and has played with several orchestras including the Elizabeth Philharmonic, the Westfield Symphony, the Montclair Symphony, and the East Orange String Quartet. He has appeared in several recitals with his brother, Theodore Liljestrand, who is a pianist. In addition to his talent as a violinist, he has also done considerable composing for string orchestras, some of the selections which have been played at the Juilliard Institute."

Mr. Liljestrand is playing for his Dec. 11 appearance: Sonata No. 4, by Handel; Air for G String, by Bach; Slavonic Fantasy, by Dvorak; Mendelssohn's Concerto in E minor (andante movement); Allegro by Kreisler; and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

"One Foot In Heaven"

Comment By Local Citizens Who Saw Preview Of Notable Picture

Local citizens who witnessed the preview of the picture "One Foot In Heaven," which is to be shown at Strand Theatre the last three days of next week are unqualified in their praise of what they agree to be a truly remarkable picture. Here are a few quotations:

Rev. Dr. John Smith Lowe: The picture "One Foot In Heaven" sent me away with high thoughts, noble ideals and fine aspirations renewed and reinforced in my mind. It is gratifying to have motion picture producers present a picture of this high order to the public. I trust that every church member in Rockland, every friend of religion, every good citizen who loves the better things of life, will be sure to see the production.

Rev. Dr. Guy Wilson: Some parents do not approve the ministry as a profession. A clergyman and wife often leave a better home than they ever find afterward. Their sacrifice includes foregoing the blessedness of a fixed residence. The pastor's wife leads a lonely life—dare not have close personal friends. Minister's children are often on the spot. Every church has an assortment—rich, poor, kind, hateful; 95 percent good Christians forgotten—5 percent bad ones remembered. Very few have genuine pride in church buildings. The pastor must "fight and plan" as well as "pray and preach." His success depends upon all—not a few. Greatest affliction to those who would keep "one foot in heaven"—gossipers. Old choir fought for chance to sing—newest—community wakes up to value of the church. Ministers greatest stay—patient, loving and sacrificial companion. His greatest compensation—knowledge he has interpreted God to men.

Mrs. Angelica P. Glover: After having read the book "One Foot In Heaven" by Hartzell Spence (which is the true story of his father's life) and having attended the first showing of the photo-play last Tuesday morning, I can sincerely say that it is not only one of the most interesting plays which I have seen for a long time, but it is also of a high moral and religious character, uplifting and thought provoking. The acting, the staging and the producing in general are fine in every way. It is of course especially interesting to church people and should be seen and enjoyed by them. I would advise everyone who is able to see it, to do so.

Kathleen S. Fuller: "One Foot In Heaven" is a remarkably human and soul filling picture. It held the audience entranced with its sheer moral uplift and religious feeling. Opening eyes of those who saw it to the need for more of just this truth in pictures to be given the world.

Mayor Edward R. Veazie: It is the story of a small-town Methodist preacher who performs his duty as he sees it—a beautiful picture, well directed, a strong cast, and uplifting.

Leroy A. Chatto: To my mind the movie "One Foot In Heaven" is even better than the book from which it is taken. I found it entertaining throughout and reverent when touching sacred things. I am pleased to recommend it.

Mrs. Carl F. Snow will be chairman of the circle supper at Congregational Church Wednesday. Serving on her committee will be Mrs. Joseph Blaisdell, Mrs. Howard Proctor, Mrs. Archie Bowley, Mrs. Walter Barstow, Mrs. Donald Brewster, Mrs. Murray Whalen, Mrs. Rhama Philbrick, Mrs. Esther Howard, Mrs. Donald Fuller, Mrs. Vance Norton, Mrs. Harold Leach, Mrs. Eugene Lamb.

Nutmeg and mace come from the same tree. The nutmeg is the seed while the mace is the fibrous covering of the nutmeg seed.

Hint for cold weather: If you rub a cut potato on the windshield of your car it will prevent the glass from becoming obscured during a heavy rain and helps when the sleet forms on it.

Sentry: "Halt! Who goes there?" Voice: "Cook, with doughnuts and coffee."

Sentry: "Pass cock. Halt doughnuts and coffee."

What could possibly be better for supper on a cold night than buckwheat cakes and New England maple syrup? Of course with plenty of butter. I am told that each year this crop is cultivated less and less.

Whenever there is gentleness, straightforwardness and reverence in brotherly affection, it harmonizes the motives of thinking out ways of life. Cherished melodies kept alive in the heart bind emotional and intellectual ties closer. Music draws people together. Everyone should try to sing or listen to music.

November has passed with few dull gray days. Thermometer not often below the 32 degree mark, with sunshine every day for some part of its hours. December comes in at zero, with skies brilliantly blue; no ice, no snow to bother yet in Knox County. Zero for one day.

There is always the question which holds the most allure to the aesthetic heart—blossoms in Summer or work of the magic craftsman at season's ending and Jack Frost with his highly spiced paint brush? The glory of massed beauty in fragrant blooms or the thrilling results of the ripening period of harvest when seed pods and brilliant berries when fruits and vegetables in mature coloring, when leaves of gold and silver and bronze and all the glory of scarlet and vermilion blend with the evergreen of the beloved pines and hemlocks and spruces, when all nature turns its coloring matter into readiness for the time of Winter. They both have their place in the very "heart of heart." Camden and Rockland have need to be proud of the artistic knowledge displayed by their Garden Club members. The beauty of all the different lines shown. The originality displayed, the latent charm in every item was a source of pride to all who had worked valiantly for this crowning event of the year.

ECHOES OF DIAMOND JUBILEE

Program For Agriculture Adopted At National Grange Session In Worcester

Second Installment

An admirable spirit of harmony prevailed throughout the entire Worcester session, and, although differing opinions were freely expressed in every instance, a friendly agreement was reached, while in establishing Grange policies ahead not a single roll call was necessary. So zealously did committees do their work that almost unanimous conclusions were reached, particularly on the many complicated sections of the Farm Program. When this was finally presented to the body it was speedily adopted, as itemized on Page 1 of this summary.

Louis J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, declined further service as National Master, bringing to a close an enviable record of 18 years continuous service, far longer than any previous head of the Grange organization has ever served. In selecting his successor, the National Grange turned to Albert S. Goss, former Master of the Washington State Grange, chairman of the executive committee of the National Grange, and for many years a close co-worker with Mr. Taber. Mr. Goss is widely known for his seven years of service as Federal Land Bank Commissioner, during which time his work in that position received high Administration approval. Mr. Goss brings to Grange leadership not only remarkable experience, but unusual contacts with those who head government departments and various other organizations devoted to the interests of agriculture.

The Worcester session was fortunate in being able to hear from quite a remarkable group of men prominent in present-day public affairs. These included Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury; Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard; M. L. Wilson, Director of Extension Service; Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota; Wheeler McMillan of Philadelphia, editor of the Farm Journal; Dana Parkinson of the United States Forest Service; H. E. Babcock, former head of the G. L. P. Exchange of Ithaca, New York; and Jerome Hardy of the Highway Education Board. In the big Seventh Degree classes five Governors of States were included. Messrs. Stassen of Minnesota, Hurley of Connecticut, McGrath of Rhode Island, Wills of Vermont, and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

The "high spot" of the convention was the initiation of 13,000 candidates into the Seventh Degree of the Grange, its ritualistic climax. More than 5,000 others, who had previously received the degree, were also spectators. This is the largest class of initiates ever received on a single day in any fraternal organization in the United States; more than 300 in excess of the Grange Seventh Degree class at Hartford, Conn., in 1934, which has since held the record in fraternal initiations. Special trains and busses brought the crowd to Worcester and more than Grange cars were in the city during the day.

Numerous conferences throughout the session considered from a national point of view such timely subjects as home-making, needs of youth, rural recreation, and preserving the religious life of rural communities. The Grange visitors on their first evening at Worcester enjoyed a delightful banquet as guests of the Massachusetts State Grange, and another banquet was later tendered by the Worcester Chamber of Commerce. On Sunday of the convention a large Grange delegation went to Lexington for a morning church service, followed by a sight-seeing trip to historic points, which included Concord, Bunker Hill, Faneuil Hall, the old North Church and Wayside Inn. One entire day was given over to another historic trip by bus, covering many points on Cape Cod, Plymouth and Duxbury, ending with a mammoth clam-bake at Halifax.

Patriotic fervor was frequently in evidence during the Worcester convention and the session heartily pledged the support of the entire membership, as well as of the farmers of the nation, to every practical means of insuring national defense; especially pledging the nation's farmers to maximum production of necessary food. Many patriotic program features marked the Worcester session and nearly every speaker referred approvingly to the patriotism of the Grange displayed again and again during its long life of 75 years.

So eager was the convention to complete its program leaving no feature unfinished, that the delegates remained in session until almost 3.30 on the morning of the final day, and then heartily sang their closing hymn, determined to make of maximum effectiveness the clear-cut program they had adopted.

Besides the election of a strong corps of National Grange officers for 1942 and 1943, in which list 16 states are represented, it was voted to hold the 1942 annual session in the State of Washington; selection of the convention city to be made soon by the Executive Committee.

Fishermen Opposed

To New Bill Which Would Require Drastic Safety Measures

Stating that there was considerable opposition among Maine fishermen to a bill pending in Congress which would require drastic safety measures for all fishing craft of 15 gross tons and over, Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf today asked the state's congressional delegation to examine the measure and its origin and give him a full report on it. Since publishing the details of the bill, Greenleaf said that he had received more than 40 letters from fishermen who "violently opposed" it.

Many of the men, Greenleaf said, declared that if the bill became a law it would "squeeze the little fellows out of business" as they would be unable to finance the proposed alterations and additions to equipment. The bill provides for fishing craft of 15 gross tons and over to be equipped with radio telephones, watertight bulkheads, breeches buoy apparatus and life boats equipped with navigating instruments, he stated.

Commissioner Greenleaf said that the consensus showed the men felt that their own safety should not be legislated as it was entirely their own personal business and that to equip their boats in the manner specified would force a prohibitive hardship on them.

Stating that every fisherman would naturally like to have a modern equipped boat but that many just could not afford it, Greenleaf said he agreed that the little fellow would be the one hardest hit if the bill passed and that he planned to advocate provision to take care of such an eventuality.

Citing one case, he told of a fisherman who had a nice, able 15-ton boat who would have to expend $5500 to put her in condition to pass the regulations that would be required.

He suggested that all fishermen in opposition contact their congressman immediately.

TENANT'S HARBOR

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Clark and young son of Franklin have been guests this week of Rev. and Mrs. Byrd Springer.

Mrs. Leroy Hupper This community has been saddened by the recent loss of a beloved neighbor, Mrs. Hazel G. Hupper, wife of Leroy N. Hupper, who died Nov. 27, after a long and painful illness.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at her residence, Rev. Charles A. Marsteller of Rockland officiating. The text of his words was taken from the sixth chapter of St. Matthew, 19th to 34th verses, a passage she frequently read, and from which she derived great comfort. She was a member of the Second Baptist Church of St. George.

She had endured her years as an invalid with extreme patience and cheerfulness, and endeavored herself to all who knew her by her kindly,

MAINE

(For The Courier-Gazette)

I'll soon be leaving this sunny land
For the rock bound coast of Maine.
I'll soon be leaving the heat and sand
And the home of the sugar cane.

'Tis a wonderful place, the climate
The skies are clear and blue
But the spicy wind through orange
And pine Just somehow don't ring true.

I want to be where the Granite hills
Come down to the salty shore
I want to be where the song of the Blends with the ocean's roar.

I want to be where the screaming gulls Mate, nest and rear their young.
Where fish hawk dive and sculpins
And miles of trawl are strung.

I want to be with the folks from home When they come for their Summer rest.

Near "The fireside far"
From the cares that are "There"
Then Maine is the best of the best.

PILFERING FROM A FRIEND

(To Mollie)

I pilfered from your love-lit home
A store of beauty for my soul
Measured by heart-ease rare poise
Dream visions with each day unroll

New vistas, caught within those walls
And treasured for my soul's sheer need
Where sorrow dwells in anguish
To rob my impoverished heart's control.

The beauty in your atmosphere is Fraught with serenely divine
No shadows hold to crush out joy
Enduring honor and faith's entwined

Breeds hope with staunch realities
For life below and higher at ease
In height of strength and love's
I pilfered from your heaven filled home Courage to go on through life alone.

Martha Scott

"One Foot In Heaven," the Fred-ric March-Martha Scott co-starring film which comes to Strand

Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, has something brand new to offer in the way of screen entertainment. Based on the best-selling novel by Hartzell Spence, it tells the story of a "practical parson" and his family in the first part of the century. Spence's own family are the characters in the real-life story, and they have been brought to life delightfully by the able cast of players.

There is humor, warmth and the spirit of abiding faith in the story of the man who served God nobly, with one foot in the heaven and the other very solidly on the ground. His was no Sunday job, but an all-week, job of solving the problems, easing the sorrows, sharing the joys of his congregation. In his task he was ably assisted by his wife who stood by him in all times of stress and subtly engineered him into the right decision in many of his problems. To their three very human youngsters fell the task of serving as models for the children of the congregation, and the job wasn't always an easy one. Romance and drama and rich humor were integral parts of the Spence family life and they are integral parts of the motion picture.

Besides March and Miss Scott,

the talented cast includes Frankie

Thomas, Elisabeth Fraser, Harry

Davenport, Beulah Bondi, Moroni

Sergeant Jacobson Gives Another Chatty Letter With Local Names

Two weeks ago I was assigned to Battery D 240th, to instruct some new recruits coming up from Fort Eustis, Va., and let me tell you these boys certainly know their stuff and according to their ways of drilling I should say that the instructions that they received down there, the officers and non-commissioned officers were about the best. They are really soldiers and will be a great help to all the Batteries in the 240th. These boys don't mind the cold weather up here at all; in fact I think that some really like it. Any way we are glad that the North and South are really working together.

Joe Brown is working at the Todd-Bath Iron Works in Portland and he certainly likes his job. I am glad he is making good. I see that Captain Mills who was our Battery Commander, is now the commanding officer of the 2d Battalion. We are more than glad to have him back even if he is not our Battery Commander.

I was talking to Charley Lawry the other day, and he tells me that he has received five or six letters asking him to continue his write-ups about the boys, who were called to serve in the Army. All the boys over here want him to continue writing because every one of us always looks for his little story every week and the paper just doesn't seem right without it, so think about this folks and drop Charley a line for the sake of the boys over here and ask him if he won't tell us what is going on that some of the folks back home might like to hear and read about.

Most of the men who came here last September have been discharged and are civilians again. Well boys if any of you read this we all want you to know that we hope that everything goes as well for you now as it did while you were here with us. I hope that Clarence Staples reads that because he was one of the boys who always looked for either my story or for Charley Lawry's.

The salute gun has gone off, ending another day, and the boys are all waiting for the supper bell to ring. After supper we all sit around on our beds and tell of the different things that have happened and of the different things that will probably happen, but, as long as the boys are happy and carefree that's all I care about, because when things don't go just right the boys don't have the good old spirit, so whenever it is possible to help them do it willingly. Some day you too might have to see your son called to the Colors.

The old bell is telling us that chow is on the table and it is time to fill up, so I will sign off. We all hope that Santa Claus will let your son be your present on Christmas Day. Drop me a line any time if there is anything you want me to write about. I will be only too glad to help you.

North-End Memories

Mr. Philbrick Tells of the A. J. Bird Coal Teamsters and Liars' Club

Rockland, Dec. 3
Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Speaking of old timers of 50 years ago, the coal teamsters deserve worthy mention—A. J. Bird, Phil Lane, Manford Philbrook, George Gray, Alford Smith and others.

They used to come down to the store early mornings and sit around the old barrel stove where they used to heat peas to put down someone's neck. No, Jud Bird did not do that, he told me he didn't. But he used to spit on all the new shoes.

They would spin yarns, each a little bigger than the other. Finally they formed the Liars' Club. Somewhat like the old fashioned spelling school, the biggest one took his place above the other and left off at night taking his place at the foot. I believe George Gray was champion most of the time.

Jud Bird tried to sit in on that but he could not handle it. He was young and did not have the experience then. Probably he could qualify now.

These single teams delivered about six tons per day, screened it, shoveled in and out of the cart which would be about 18 tons or 100 tons a week. 5,000 a year. Phil Lane working 35 years handled approximately 175,000 tons in his lifetime.

Sometimes we would see with rubber coat and sou'wester on raining or snowy days, plodding along, perhaps going to some family which might have the last coal or wood on the fire.

They were faithful servants To rich and poor alike, And brought cheer to some sad heart Many a bleak cold winter night.

E. H. Philbrick

WHICH WAY IS AHEAD?

To move ahead one must have that vital spark called courage. Courage is the most perfect response that health and enjoyment can muster for life's best efforts.

The conquest over fear comes from many sources, one is from a mental hygiene need called "Courage of right thinking" and that means a mental bath from sordid carelessness. Co-ordinating mediums should be established throughout the land to educate mental slugs. Not all of them will respond gracefully or thoughtfully. Some will decline the clinic treatment needed. Our courts are not free from mental ineptitude. They do not know the way ahead and they fail to think which way is ahead, for developing higher ideals. Our colleges need this mental urge to courageous platforms for improvement in visions of clean standards, honesty and faith in the highest power. God of the universe. Our quest should be always—which way is ahead.
